

MANY CASUALTIES IN NEW YORK UNITS

Former National Guard Soldiers Who Served at Border Are Included in List.

BAUMERT'S FATE IN DOUBT

Letter Received from N. Y. A. C.
Member Is Dated After Time of His Reported Death.

Captain Arthur Ellis Hamm, who led National Army infantry in the first raid into Lorraine, was killed on Sept. 14 when serving with a regiment of the 82d Division. He was a Fort McPherson Camp graduate. Prior to entering the training camp, Captain Hamm, who was 26 years old, was a law student at the Florida State University.

Lieutenant Frank Baumert of the 105th Infantry, New York Division, was killed on Sept. 3, according to a telegram received at his home, First Avenue, College Point, but a letter from him dated since the time of his reported death has been received. Baumert held membership in the New York Athletic Club and the Catholic Lyceum when he left for France.

Lieutenant Joseph J. Bong of the 165th Infantry, has been severely wounded. His home is at 17 Virginia Avenue, Jersey City. He was trained at Plattsburg and has two brothers in the service.

Lieutenant J. Edwin Frobisher of the Aviation Section, Signal Corps, died on Sept. 10 from wounds received four days earlier when fighting German planes in an effort to guide our artillery fire. Lieutenant Frobisher was 23 years old and lived at 659 Belgrove Drive, Arlington, N. J.

Sergeant John Hagger, dead from wounds, went over with the Machine Gun Company of the 305th Infantry. He was 28 years old when he was called to Upton. He lived at 544 Warren Street, Brooklyn.

Mechanic James E. Robinson of Company A, 165th Infantry, formerly of the 14th New York Infantry, was killed on July 29. Robinson, a native of Ireland, was 31 years old and lived at 654 Bergen Street, Brooklyn.

Corporal Benjamin Perkins of the 135th Infantry was killed on Aug. 9. Perkins was a comedian and dancer on a Middle Western vaudeville circuit when America declared war. Although 40 years old, he immediately quit the footlights for fighting. He lived at 577 New Lots Avenue, Brooklyn.

Samuel Jacobs of Company G, 105th Infantry, was killed on Sept. 3, his father, at 7 Brewster Avenue, Flushing, learned last night. He served at the Mexican border in the old 71st New York.

Wagoner Edward J. Wall of Company A, 104th Machine Gun Battalion, once part of the First New York Cavalry, was driving a motor lorry up to the lines on the night of Aug. 14, when a German searchlight picked him out. Shells dropped on the supply train, and Wall and four others were killed. He was 22 years old, and lived at 342 Rutland Road, Brooklyn, and was an electrician.

Stephen A. Laud, a member of Company C, 105th Infantry, was killed in action on Aug. 13. He lived with his widowed mother at 62 Cedar Street, Brooklyn, was 21 years old, and was a stock clerk for the Long Island Rapid Transit Authority.

William J. Cassidy of the 165th Infantry was called "every inch a soldier" on July 16, wrote Captain M. A. Kelly of the 165th to Mrs. Mary Cassidy at 724 Vernon Avenue, Long Island City. He had long been a member of the 69th.

Stephen Curtin of the 165th Infantry who lived at 83 William Street, Long Island City, died in action on July 29. He was 24 years old, came here six years ago from Ireland, and joined the 69th two years ago.

Sergeant Adolph Buehl of Battery B, 304th Artillery, has been killed by shrapnel, according to a letter from Captain Oliver Peary to the dead soldier's family at 19 Chestnut Street, Brooklyn. Buehl was 25 years old.

William Mallon of Company A, 165th Infantry, was killed on July 29. He was 19 years old and lived at 2,028 Grand Concourse, the Bronx. He was graduated at the Cathedral College.

Rudolph J. Schwartz of Company C, 165th Infantry, is reported dead. He was a painter, 23 years old, when he left his home at 509 East Seventy-fifth Street last year to join the 69th.

Thomas Byle, killed in action, was in the 165th Infantry. He was 44 years old when he quit as driver for the American Express and signed up with the 69th. He lived with a sister at 309 East Sixty-third Street.

Edward A. Kelly, dead from wounds, was in the machine gun company of the 308th Infantry, a Camp Upton unit. He was 23 years old and lived at 436 East Eighty-fourth Street.

John Costello of Company E, 165th Infantry, reported killed, enlisted last year on his thirty-sixth birthday from his home at 318 East Ninety-third Street. He was killed on July 28 after seven trips over the top.

Carlton Ellis, who was transferred from the 7th New York to the 165th Infantry, was killed on Aug. 31. He was prominent in athletics while attending New Utrecht High School, Brooklyn. His home was at 1,178 Forty-second Street, Brooklyn.

James Marsden Percival of Company I, 106th Infantry, New York Division, is reported killed on August 24. He served with the 23d Infantry of Brooklyn on the border. He lived at 200 Cleveland Street, Brooklyn.

William F. Lynch of Company K, 308th Infantry, was killed on July 23. He was 23 years old and lived at 468 Second Avenue. He was formerly a letter carrier and attached to Station F.

Corporal Paul McLeod of Company I, 107th Infantry, was formerly receiving teller at the Broadway and Eighteenth Street branch of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank. He lived with his brother-in-law, Dr. A. E. Munson, head of the Union Hospital, at 2,387 Davidson Avenue, the Bronx. A letter was received from Corporal McLeod dated Aug. 18, in which he stated that he had not yet been in action. He was killed two days later.

Corporal Gustav Winter of Company E, 165th Infantry, is reported killed. He was a member of the U. S. S. Utah landing party at Vera Cruz, winning the Congressional Medal of Honor. He lived at 315 East Seventy-fourth Street.

William Conville of Company M, 165th Infantry, killed twelve Germans before being wounded. He was a chauffeur and lived at 976 Third Avenue when he enlisted.

Thomas F. Flood of Company M, 106th Infantry, New York Division, lost his right arm in action. He is 19 years old. His home is at 242 Pearl Street, Brooklyn.

Corporal Charles A. Van Etten of Company D, 105th Infantry, New York Division, is recovering from a wound. As a member of the 71st Infantry he served on the border. He lives at 840 Spruce Street, Morris Park, L. I.

Ferdinand Rees of Company D, 308th Infantry had both arms shattered by shrapnel on Aug. 24, according to a letter to his father, Elias Rees, with whom he was in the diamond business at 51 Maiden Lane.

Joseph Gold of Company C, 38th Infantry, wounded by a sniper on Aug. 7, was rescued under fire by Knights of Columbus workers who had penetrated the fringe of No Man's Land looking for wounded patrols. Gold lives at 470 East Tenth Street.